

Merefield's Electronics

Conflict Minerals Statement

All goods supplied must comply with section 1502 of the Dodd-Frank US Financial Reform Bill HR4173 relating to "Conflict Minerals"

As a global distributor, we are not able to certify as to the county of origin of the minerals contained in the products manufactured by our suppliers, however we are committed to working with our customers to supply products that meet their specifications.

We are aware of our responsibility and will pass-on information relating to the devices that we are advised may contain these conflict materials, when communicated to us by the manufacturers.

Merefields fully understand the importance of this issue to its customers and is committed to supply chain initiatives and overall corporate social responsibility and sustainability efforts that work towards a conflict free supply chain.

